SIX PERSONS DIE IN BLAZE

Oil Lamp Turned Over By In- valid Blamed for Fire— Five in Family Die

PINDLAY, O., Jan. 12.—An oil lamp, believed to have been upset by Laura Long, an invalid, was today blamed for the horrible death of six persons, five of them members of one family, who were burned to death when fire destroyed the home of Wilson Long, 12 miles east of here early yesterday.

All of the victims excepting the invalid were asleep when the flames ravaged the home.

The dead:
Wilson Long, 46, his mother.
Nancy Long, 78, his mother.
Laura Long, 52, his sister.
Helen Long, 17, a daughter.
Leroy Long, 4, a son.
Leona Ewing, 14, a guest.

An investigation disclosed that the fire started on the first floor of the dwelling. It is believed that Long's sister was unable to give an alarm due to her helpless condition. Indications are that burning oil flowed over the downstairs floor causing the flames to spread swiftly.

The two women and the daughter, Helen, with her friend, Leona Ewing, were sleeping on the first floor, while Long and his little son were upstairs. Mrs. Long was visiting friends in this city and thus escaped the tragedy which caused the death of all her family except two other daughters, Mary and Martha, who are nurses in a local hospital.

The four persons sleeping on the ground floor were apparently suffocated by the smoke before they had an opportunity to escape or to warn the father and infant son upstairs. The body of Long and the baby were found at the foot of the stairs which led to the belief that Long smelled smoke and started down the steps.

The body of the girl was burned beyond recognition until the body of the other girl was removed from the charred ruins.

Neighbors first discovered the fire but the wooden structure was entirely enveloped by the flames and beyond control.

J. A. Graham, Civil War Vet., Recalls Experience On Birthday Anniversary

James A. Graham, a veteran of the Civil War, celebrated his 87th birthday anniversary Saturday.

He was born just across the county line in Ross-co. west of Kingston. He was a student at the old Circleville high school and when the war of the Rebellion broke out joined Company A, 114th O. V. I. which was organized by John Lynch, then superintendent of the Circleville school and the first captain of Company A.

Mr. Graham recalls on Sept. 19, 1862, flags were waving in the breeze in Circleville; drums were rolling; both young and old were greatly excited, bidding farewell to 940 young men, the cream of the community, who were leaving the camp grounds, southeast of the city, to make an 18 mile hike to Chillicothe.

Private James A. Graham strode along carrying a musket and the regulation army pack. They were a joyful lot then, more than 1,000 alert youngsters on their way to war.

He recalled the long, dusty hike to Chillicothe, then a train of cattle cars to Memphis, where the 114th O. V. I. joined Sherman's army, and moved on Vicksburg. It was here with Sherman the Circleville lads learned what war was. In 1863 he served in the Vicksburg campaign and in Louisiana. In November, 1863, he embarked for Texas and served with the army in the Gulf of Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas.

He was captured by rebels near Morgans, Oct. 13, 1864, while on a foraging party, and taken to Camp Ford or Tyler, near the countyseat of Tyler-co, Texas. Here he spent eight months in the rebel prison. He says the prisoners were subjected to the tyranny of a vicious cowardly commandant. Prisoners were frequently tied up by their thumbs with their toes just touching the ground and were ironed and clubbed for the slightest offense. Standing on stumps in the sun was common punishment. As the stockade grew more crowded the sanitary condition grew worse, the food was poorer, fifth increased, vermin swarmed, and a great number of prisoners became sick and died. Dogs were used to hunt them down if they tried to escape, and if the dogs did not kill a recaptured man, tying up by the thumbs was his punishment or he was shot.

Comrade Graham was not released from this camp until after the war was over and he was among the last of 4,800 prisoners paroled by the rebels. He returned to New Orleans where he found that Captain Hawk was in charge of his company. He was mustered out at Houston, Texas, July 31, 1865, together with 393 other men, all that was left of the 940 who marched away on Sept. 19, 1862.

He returned to Circleville where he was employed by the D. B. Wagner retail-grocery company. He then learned the carpenter trade under John Pickering, deceased, and finally went out into the contracting and building business for himself. He retired from business 12 years ago and is taking life easy at his home on E Mount-st where he has lived for over 60 years.

He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, the Columbus lodge number 32, I. O. O. F., and the Groce Post G. A. R. In 1929 he was appointed an aide-camp of the Grand Army of the Republic by Captain Elbridge L. Hawk, national commander.

Mr. Graham celebrated his birthday quietly with a family dinner at his home. Guests included Miss Sally Fitzpatrick, his son, W. J. Graham and his wife, of N. Court-st. The other son, H. E. Graham, formerly of Toledo, now of Davenport, Iowa, was unable to be with his father at the time.

He received many greetings from his friends who wish him many more happy birthdays.

BRITAIN HAS FIERCE GALE

Death Toll Already Reaches 32—28 Die When Target Tug Goes Under

LONDON, Jan. 13.—A death toll of 32 has already been taken by one of the worst gales in the history of the British Isles, it was estimated today.

The gale, which at times reached a velocity of 120 miles an hour, caused widespread damage both on land and sea and is still raging at such a pitch as to keep virtually all shipping harbor-locked.

Twenty lives were lost when the British target tug Saint Genny sank in the teeth of the gale about 32 miles northwest of Ushant.

Twelve persons were killed in numerous accidents occurring in southern England and parts of Ireland as a direct result of the gale.

At least 20 persons suffered serious injuries and it is feared the toll of dead and injured may go much higher.

Property damage was enormous. A number of shipping craft reported themselves in dangerous predicaments. Hundreds of vessels were forced to seek the shelter of nearby harbors.

Air service across the English Channel was at a standstill. Ship service on the channel was virtually in the same state.

COGNOVIT NOTE

A cognovit judgment in the sum of $399.65 was returned in common pleas court Monday in favor of the Citizens Budget Co., of Chillicothe against Mark H. Haswell, Evelyn Haswell, Frances K. Haswell and Glenn Vanscoy.

FOG HINDERS CAR DRIVERS

Speed of 15 Miles an Hour Prevails Between Colum- bus and Circleville

Travelers on the Scioto trail Sunday night found themselves creeping along, with eyes glued to the white stripe painted down the middle of the road, which was about the only landmark visible. The fog and rain was so dense that the telephone posts were mere suggestions of shapes and fences and ditches were hidden dangers waiting for an unlucky driver who thought he knew the road.

Driving 15 miles an hour was almost speeding on the road between Columbus and Circleville. The familiar highway was turned into a lane of mystery. The high waters which reached almost to the road in many places, made the rain and fog seem heavier and familiar shapes were erased by the flood on all sides.

Bright head lights were turned off because they reflected the light on the fog, and dimmers were used in the fog clouds. Machines passed each other like thieves in the night.

SWINDLE TALE IS UNFOUNDED

Report That "Federal" Agent Had Passed Counterfeit Bills Untrue

There is no truth in the story circulating around town concerning counterfeit bills that were passed here Saturday. It was reported that H. E. Betz of the Betz confectionery store and Mack Parrett of the Parrett Clothing store were the victims each losing large sums of money.

The story was told that a man who exhibited a federal detective badge told the Circleville men that it had been reported that counterfeit bills were being passed in Circleville, and asked to see their money.

When the so styled detective examined the money of the two stores, according to the story, he was supposed to have picked out a number of bills, which he said were counterfeit and which he took replacing them with bills of his own.

The story concluded with Mr. Betz and Mr. Parrett turning the money in at the banks where they were told the bills just received from the "detective" were counterfeit.

However, there is no truth in the wild tale, and no one is the loser.

RALPH KOCHER ACCOSTED BY LARGE NEGRO

E. Franklin-st Resident Says Man Held Him Up With Revolver in Alley

Police were searching Monday for a negro who is said to have held up and robbed Ralph Kocher, E. Franklin-st, meat cutter at the W. Main-st Kroger store of the sum of $147 in the rear of Kocher's residence early Monday morning. Kocher had gone out of his house and started to his garage to get his automobile when he was accosted by the negro.

Just as Kocher stepped into the alley went through Kocher's pocket, he says. In the inky darkness, Kocher says he could see the negro was a large, surly fellow and really meant business and held the revolver tightly against his ribs. The negro roughly went through Kocher's pockets and finally found two purses.

The negro asked which pocket-book had the money in and Kocher replied that the small one which belonged to him contained money. This was thrown down in disgust when the negro found there was no money. He then examined a larger flat purse which belongs to the Kroger company. He found the money there, the sum of $147.

He then turned and hurried away and Kocher ran into his house and called police. He then took his revolver and returned to the alley. By this time the neighborhood was aroused. Officer William McCrady arrived, and a search for the negro was started. Kocher said he saw the negro as he jumped over the fence and fired two shots at him.

Kocher was afraid to shoot in the dark for fear he would hit someone other than the negro so the action with firearms ceased. Though badly frightened, Kocher described the holdup man as an unusually large and black negro, who wore a sweater with a button only at the neck. A soft cap pulled down low over his eyes. From Kocher's description the negro really meant business and is not a novice at the hold-up game.

Luckily Kocher had just given his wife his money before he left the house. He says the negro told him to "show me the money fast or I'll leave you in the alley in a heap."

Police had no clue at noon today of the negro.

SIX PERSONS DIE IN BLAZE

Oil Lamp Turned Over By Invalid Blamed for Fire—
Five in Family Die

FINDLAY, O., Jan. 13.—An oil lamp, believed to have been upset by Laura Long, an invalid, was today blamed for the horrible death of six persons, five of them members of one family, who were burned to death when fire destroyed
the home of Wilson Long, 12 miles east of here early yesterday.

All of the victims excepting the invalid were asleep when the flames ravaged the home.

The dead:
Wilson Long, 46.
Nancy Long, 78, his mother.
Laura Long, 52, his sister.
Helen Long, 17, a daughter.
Leroy Long, 4, a son.
Leona Ewing, 14, a guest.

An investigation disclosed that the fire started on the first floor of the dwelling. It is believed that Long's sister was unable to give an alarm due to her helpless condition. Indications are that burning oil flowed over the downstairs floor causing the flames to spread swiftly.

The two women and the daughter, Helen, with her friend, Leona Ewing, were sleeping on the first floor, while Long and his little son were upstairs. Mrs. Long was visiting friends in this city and thus escaped the tragedy which caused the death of all her family except two other daughters,
Mary and Martha, who are nurses
in a local hospital.

The four persons sleeping on the ground floor were apparently suffocated by the smoke before they had an opportunity to escape or to warn the father and infant son upstairs. The body of Long and the baby were found at the foot of the stairs which led to the belief that Long smelled smoke and started down the steps.

The body of the girl was burned
beyond recognition until the body of the other girl was removed from the charred ruins.

Neighbors first discovered the fire but the wooden structure was entirely enveloped by the flames and beyond control.

J. A. Graham, Civil War Vet., Recalls Experience On Birthday Anniversary

James A. Graham, a veteran of the Civil war, celebrated his 87th birthday anniversary Saturday.

He was born just across the county line in Ross-co west of Kingston. He was a student at the old Circleville high school and when the war of the Rebellion
broke out joined Company A, 114th O. V. I. which was organized by John Lynch, then superintendent of the Circleville school and the first captain of Company A.

Mr. Graham recalls on Sept. 19, 1862, flags were waving in the breeze in Circleville; drums were rolling; both young and old were greatly excited, bidding farewell to 940 young men, the cream of the community, who were leaving the camp grounds, southeast of the city, to make an 18 mile hike to Chillicothe.

Private James A. Graham strode along carrying a musket and the regulation army pack. They were a joyful lot then, more than 1,000 alert youngsters on their way to war.

TELLS OF HIKE

He recalled the long, dusty hike to Chillicothe, then a train of cattle cars to Memphis, where the 114th O. V. I. joined Sherman's army and moved on Vicksburg. It was here with Sherman the Circleville lads learned what war was.
In 1863 he served in the Vicksburg campaign and in Louisiana. In November, 1863, he embarked for Texas and served with the army in the gulf of Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas.

He was captured by rebels near Morganza, Oct. 13, 1864, while on a foraging party, and taken to Camp Ford or Tyler, near the countyseat of Tyler-co, Texas.
Here he spent eight months in the recon prison. He says the prisoners were subjected to the tyranny of a vicious cowardly commandant.
Prisoners were frequently tied up by their thumbs with their toes just touching the ground and were ironed and clubbed for the slightest offense. Standing on stumps in the sun was common punishment. As the stockade grew more crowded the sanitary condition grew worse, the food was poorer,
fifth increased, vermin swarmed,
and a great number of prisoners became sick and died. Dogs were used to hunt them down if they tried to escape, and if the dogs
did not kill a recaptured man, tying up by the thumbs was his punishment or he was shot.

Comrade Graham was not released from this camp until after the war was over and he was among the last of 4,800 prisoners

paroled by the rebels. He returned to New Orleans where he found that Captain Hawk was in charge of his company. He was mustered out at Houston, Texas, July 31, 1865, together with 393 other men, all that was left of the 940 who marched away on Sept. 19, 1862.

RETURNED HOME

He returned to Circleville where he was employed by the D. B.
Wagner retail grocery company.
He then learned the carpenter

REUBEN ROWE HAS INJURY

Well Known Jackson-twp Man
Suffers Fractured Collar
Bone in Wreck

Reuben Rowe, Jackson-twp,
suffered a fractured collarbone
Sunday evening when the automobile belonging and driven by Geo.
Fee, Jackson-twp, collided with Ford owned by Roy Miller and driven by Clark Neff of Millport,
on the Columbus pike at the intersection of Road 104 and the Scioto Trail.

Rowe's injury was the only serious one which resulted from the accident.

Fee's Chevrolet was badly damaged and was the Ford belonging to Miller.

Sheriff Frank Davis investigated
the accident.

FOG HINDERS CAR DRIVERS

Speed of 15 Miles an Hour Prevails Between Columbus and Circleville

Travelers on the Scioto trail
Sunday night found themselves creeping along, with eyes glued to the white stripe painted down the middle of the road, which was about the only land mark visible.
The fog and rain was so dense that the telephone posts were mere suggestions of shapes and fences and ditches were hidden dangers waiting for an unlucky driver who thought he knew the road.

Driving 15 miles an hour was almost speeding on the road between Columbus and Circleville.
The familiar highway was turned into a lane of mystery. The high waters which reached almost to the road in many places,
made the rain and fog seem heavier and familiar shapes were erased by the flood on all sides.

Bright head lights were turned off because they reflected the light on the fog, and dimmers were used in the fog clouds. Machines passed each other like thieves in the night.

SWINDLE TALE IS UNFOUNDED

Report That "Federal" Agent
Had Passed Counterfeit
Bills Untrue

There is no truth in the story circulating around town concerning counterfeit bills that were passed here Saturday. It was reported that H. E. Betz of the Betz confectionery store and Mack Parrett of the Parrett Clothing store were the victims, each losing large sums of money.

The story was told that a man who exhibited a federal detective badge told the Circleville men that it had been reported that counterfeit bills were being passed in Circleville, and asked to see their money.

When the so styled detective examined the money of the two stores, according to the story, he was supposed to have picked out a number of bills, which he said were counterfeit, and which he took replacing them with bills of his own.

The story concluded with Mr.
Betz and Mr. Parrett turning the money in at the banks where they were told the bills just received from the "detective" were counterfeit.

However, there is no truth in the wild tale, and no one is the loser.

Accidents on State Roads
Over Weekend

By International News Service
Five persons were killed and scores of others were injured, some of them fatally, in dozens of automobile accidents in Ohio Saturday and Sunday, according to dispatches of International News Service today.

Two persons were killed and three others were critically injured when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train near Mineral city yesterday. The dead are Henry A. Schoyer, 57, and his granddaughter, Anna Irene Egler, 8.

The injured persons are Mr. and Mrs. Martin Egler, Dover, parents of the child, and Mary Ladene Egger, 3, another daughter.
Mrs. Jennie Ross, 66, of Zanesville, was instantly killed Saturday night when she was struck by an automobile which was driven by Mrs. Erma Wilson. The car dragged the body of the aged woman 75 feet, police were told. No charges had been filed against the driver early today.

Salvatore Farruggio, of Marion,
was killed, and his wife and small son, and Dwight Davis, also of Marion, were seriously injured
when the two automobiles, driven by Farruggio and Davis collided head on near Bucyrus late yesterday. Cause of the accident was laid to the dense fog which enveloped the district.

Mrs. Anna Stifter, 78, died late yesterday from injuries which she received when she was struck by a large truck in Hamilton. The death of Mrs. Stifter brought Hamilton's-co's 1930 accident toll to eight.

An unidentified man, about 25 or 30 years old, is unconscious and in a critical condition in a Columbus hospital as a result of being struck by a taxicab which was driven by

SCIOTO RIVER STILL RAISING

Nearly an Inch of Water Re-

The threats of cold weather with sleet and snow failed to frighten away the steady downpour of rain which has fallen here for the past week, and all Sunday night and early Monday morning the rain descended in torrents. Within the past 24 hours .95 of an inch of rain has fallen and at noon
the river was rising rapidly.

A report from the county sur-

RALPH KOCHER ACCOSTED BY LARGE NEGRO

E. Franklin-st Resident Says
Man Held Him Up With Revolver in Alley

Police were searching Monday
for a negro who is said to have held up and robbed Ralph Kocher, E. Franklin-st, meat cutter at the W. Main-st Kroger store of the sum of $147 in the rear of Kocher's residence early Monday morning. Kocher had gone out of his house and started to his garage to get his automobile when he was accosted by the negro.

Just as Kocher stepped into the
ly went through Kocher's pocket-up," he says. In the inky darkness, Kocher says he could see the the negro was a large, surly fellow and really meant business and held the revolver tightly against his ribs. The negro roughly went through Kocher's pockets and finally found two purses.

The negro asked which pocketbook had the money in and Kocher replied that the small one which belonged to him contained money.
This was thrown down in disgust
when the negro found there was no money. He then examined a larger flat purse which belongs to the Kroger company. He found the money there, the sum of $147.

Called Police

He then turned and hurried away and Kocher ran into his house and called police. He then took his revolver and returned to the alley.
By this time the neighborhood
was aroused. Officer William Mc-Crady arrived and a search for the negro was started. Kocher said he saw the negro as he jumped over the fence and fired two shots at him.

Kocher was afraid to shoot in the dark for fear he would hit someone other than the negro so the action with firearms ceased.

Though badly frightened, Kocher described the holdup man as an unusually large and black negro,
who wore a sweater with a button
only at the neck. A soft cap pulled down low over his eyes. From Kocher's description the negro really meant business and is not a novice at the hold-up game.

Luckily Kocher had just given his wife his money before he left the house. He says the negro told him to "show me the money fast or I'll leave you in the alley in a heap."

Police had no clue at noon today of the negro.

KINGSTONITES ON SHORT END

Merchants Lose Fast Tussle
To Pleasantville Quintet
By 44-43 Score

The Pleasantville Independent basketball team, undefeated this season, won a fast and furious contest from the Kingston Merchants at Kingston Saturday night by the score of 44-43.

The game started defensively with the score very close throughout the first half. Pleasantville held a 19-17 lead at the end of the half.

The second half was faster with both teams putting on a scoring spree. Pleasantville held a seven point lead with only a minute to play but two one-hand shots by Glitt and a follow shot by Stout cut the lead to one point but before another tipoff could be made the game had ended.

Very fast passwork enabled the Pleasantville forwards to run rings around their guards to the extent that Baker and W. Wildermuth, Pleasantville forwards, scored 18 and 15 respectively.

Joe Glitt led the Kingston scorers with 16 points.

Next Saturday the Merchants play the Ashville Jr. O. U. A. M. of Ashville.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK by Edson R. Waite Shawnee, Okla.

THAT a city is just what its citizens make it.

If there is something wrong with its citizens, the city is wrong in every way.

Cities are judged by the public spirit of its citizens. More citizens. More cities die for lack of public spirit than for any other reason.

The future holds wonderful for the city that is full of public spirited citizens.

Marvelous development is ahead of the city that has a spirit of progressiveness. A spirit of progressiveness makes citizens better fit to their share of city building.

It takes no superior wisdom to know that a boosting spirit makes citizens cooperate together.

in a way that builds bigger, better cities.

In cities where everybody works and nobody shirks you will always find that boosting spirit—a spirit of hospitality, cooperation and pep all combined.

Prejudice Against The Home City is Like a Bad Case of Indigestion. It Destroys the Kind of Action That Builds and Produces.

Grit and a Determination to Succeed Builds Better Cities.

Fortunate Eskimos Government physicians say that rickets is a disease which is practically unknown among Eskimos. It is possible, that cases may occur, but the disease is by no means common.

Handicaps to Friendship Friendship is too pure a pleasure for a mind clogged with ambition or the lust of power.—Junius

Human Perversity We may forgive those who bore us, we cannot forgive those whom we bore.—La Rochefoucauld.

Wants Make The Man

BABIES are born with but one want—food. When men grow old, their wants again become few—quiet corners, friendly faces, peace.

But in the years between, men and women are living and developing to the full extent of their powers. Then their wants are legion.

People today are wanting and getting more things that make for complete living than ever before. To these common needs of every one of the advertisements in this newspaper bring invaluable opportunities of satisfaction every day.

It is the function of the advertisements to enable you not only to get what you want—but to get the very best that your money can buy. They help you to decide which automobile, which set of furniture, which radio to buy. They assure you that your wants will be more than met—that they will be wisely and completely satisfied.

Wisconsin Defeated Ohio After Trailing 16-15 at the End of the Half

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Purdue and Northwestern, two of the best basketball teams in the western conference this season, clash tonight.

Both survived rough tests Saturday night when Purdue defeated Michigan, 23 to 19, and Northwestern took Minnesota into camp with a 32 to 27 score.

Another highlight in the Big Nine basketball season occurs tonight when Illinois and Michigan bring up an old rivalry at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Opening conference games and preliminary results have stamped Purdue and Northwestern as two of the most outstanding fives in the western collegiate league this season. By virtue of their records tonight's game no doubt will go down as one of the classics of 1930 basketball in the Big Nine.

When "Stretch" Murphy, Purdue's center, meets Rut Walter, Northwestern's pivot man, this evening it will be a reunion of two old Indiana prep school rivals. Walter is from Kokomo and Murphy is from Marion.

Michigan, with its more experienced lineup, is figured to whip the Illini.

Saturday evening Wisconsin's fast quintet looped its way into a 500 percentage by defeating Ohio State, 32 to 25. The Badgers appeared to hit their stride against Ohio State and can be expected to perform some dangerous work hereafter.

Although Indiana defeated Chicago as was expected, the Hoosiers failed to show a dangerous attack.

KINGSTONITES ON SHORT END

Merchants Lose Fast Tussle
To Pleasantville Quintet
By 44-43 Score

The Pleasantville Independent basketball team, undefeated this season, won a fast and furious contest from the Kingston Merchants at Kingston Saturday night by the score of 44-43.

The game started defensively with the score very close throughout the first half. Pleasantville held a 19-17 lead at the end of the half.

The second half was faster with both teams putting on a scoring spree. Pleasantville held a seven point lead with only a minute to play but two one-hand shots by Glitt and a follow shot by Stout cut the lead to one point but before another tipoff could be made the game had ended.

Very fast passwork enabled the Pleasantville forwards to run rings around their guards to the extent that Baker and W. Wildermuth, Pleasantville forwards, scored 18 and 15 respectively.

Joe Glitt led the Kingston scorers with 16 points.

Next Saturday the Merchants play the Ashville Jr. O. U. A. M. of Ashville.

PURDUE FACES N. W. WILDCATS

Wisconsin Defeated Ohio After Trailing 16-15 at the End of the Half

CHICAGO, Jan. 13—Purdue and Northwestern, two of the best basketball teams in the western conference this season, clash tonight. Both survived rough tests Saturday night when Purdue defeated Michigan, 23 to 19, and Northwestern took Minnesota into camp with a 32 to 27 score.

Another highlight in the Big Nine basketball season occurs tonight when Illinois and Michigan bring up an old rivalry at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Opening conference games and preliminary results have stamped Purdue and Northwestern as two of the most outstanding fives in the western collegiate league this season. By virtue of their records tonight's game no doubt will go down as one of the classics of 1930 basketball in the Big Nine.

When "Stretch" Murphy, Purdue's center, meets Rut Walter, Northwestern's pivot man, this evening it will be a reunion of two old Indiana prep school rivals. Walter is from Kokomo and Murphy is from Marion.

Michigan, with its more experienced lineup, is figured to whip the Illini.

Saturday evening Wisconsin's fast quintet looped its way into a .500 percentage by defeating Ohio State, 32 to 25. The Badgers appeared to hit their stride against Ohio State and can be expected to perform some dangerous work hereafter.

Although Indiana defeated Chicago as was expected, the Hoosiers failed to show a dangerous attack.

Babies Always Babies

Even babies of the Stone age had to be amused, judging from a little rattle recently found near Budapest. The handle is in the shape of an animal's head and it makes just as much noise as any baby's plaything of today.

A hitch-hiker is the name given to one who walks along the road seeking and taking rides from any persons who may be going in the direction which he wishes to travel.

Spending

Children should be taught how to spend as well as to save. To know the value of money is the best check to wasteful spending and, therefore, teaches saving.

Handicaps to Friendship

Human Perversity

Wants Make The Man

BABIES are born with but one want—food. When men grow old, their wants again become few—quiet corners, friendly faces, peace.

But in the years between, men and women are living and developing to the full extent of their powers. Then their wants are legion.

People today are wanting and getting more things that make for complete living than ever before. To these common needs of every one of the advertisements in this newspaper bring invaluable opportunities of satisfaction every day.

It is the function of the advertisements to enable you not only to get what you want—but to get the very best that your money can buy. They help you to decide which automobile, which set of furniture, which radio to buy. They assure you that your wants will be more than met—that they will be wisely and completely satisfied.

For a SORE throat
A sore throat may be eased by taking just one, with quarter of a glass of water in which you have dissolved two tablets of Bayer Aspirin. You may have to repeat the treatment for a deep-seated inflammation like tonsillitis, but Bayer Aspirin is the one thing that reduces the infection. Don't forget this most sensible of all treatments for sore throat. The one the nurses all know; the one which all doctors concede to be effective. And remember its quick relief of neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, lumbago and the like. Use it to break-up any cold, or to dispel a headache. It does not depress the heart. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer manufacture of monoaceticacidester of salicylic acid.

Italy's Royal Heir Weds Princess

This radioed picture of the wedding of Italy's royal heir to Princess Marie Jose of Belgium was received in New York in less than twelve hours after the actual ceremony took place. It shows an interior view of the famous Pauline Chapel in the Quirinal Palace. In a magnificent ceremony, which carried Rome back to the feudal splendor of the Middle Ages, Crown Prince Umberto, future King of Italy, took his childhood sweetheart for his bride. Thunderous acclaim greeted the happy couple as they motored through streets packed with humanity in the Holy City after the culmination of their wedding ceremony.

This radioed picture of the wedding of Italy's royal heir to Princess Marie Jose of Belgium was received in New York in less than twelve hours after the actual ceremony took place. It shows an interior view of the famous Pauline Chapel in the Quirinal Palace. In a magnificent ceremony, which carried Rome back to the feudal splendor of the Middle Ages, Crown Prince Umberto, future King of Italy, took his childhood sweetheart for his bride. Thunderous acclaim greeted the happy couple as they motored through streets packed with humanity in the Holy City after the culmination of their wedding cere-

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take.
Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities
as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

THE DOG'S DAY

Nearly everybody seems to love a dog nowadays. It might be supposed that with the growth of cities, dogs would disappear. But not so. There seems to be nearly as many dogs in the city today as in the country. And they are treated better than ever before. As a matter of fact, they are treated like gentlemen and ladies. It shows on the streets. It shows in apartment houses. It shows particularly in hotels. Places where dogs were banned a few years ago welcome them now and make provision for their comfort. Steamships permit them. Department stores in New York and some of the other big cities have special attendants to take care of dogs while their owners are shopping.

And as a matter of fact, why shouldn't dogs be welcomed when they are well behaved, as they usually are? Says a New York hotel manager, "More damage is done by a single cocktail party in one day than by all the dogs in our house in a year."

EXERCISE

Former President Coolidge is quoted as saying that he doesn't play golf because it takes too much time changing clothes; and he doesn't ride horseback, though he likes it, because it takes too much time to get boots on and off. Maybe it's all in the point of view. It happens that Mr. Coolidge has never been very enthusiastic about physical exercise. But suppose exercise were what he wanted. Some men, who go in for sartorial completeness, seem to keep fit just by changing from suit to suit. Some golf club members seem to get most of their physical culture that way. And when it comes to pulling boots on and off, is there any more wholesome exercise than that? It usually exercises even one's vocabulary.

END TO CARBON MONOXIDE GAS

A chemistry professor at Johns Hopkins University announces a way has been found to eliminate deadly carbon monoxide gas from automobile exhaust fumes. Certain tests have been made which seem to show that an automobile equipped with the newly discovered agency can be left indefinitely in a closed garage with the engine running without liberating carbon monoxide or any other gas dangerous to human life. If this were applied universally to automobiles, it would make asphyxiation from exhaust gases impossible. Also it would keep this poison from going into the atmosphere and affecting plants and people.

If this proves to be a sure thing which can be used generally without too great expense it will be a great blessing to the motor-using world. If these two things are not true of it yet, there is reason to believe they will be some day. Chemical research has already accomplished as many miracles that nothing remains impossible and impractical any more.

As between free trade and political freedom, the Filipinos would like both.

THE MAGICIAN

"STORM-TOSSED"

BY HELEN SCHERMERHORN YOUNG

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE.

BOTH Ned Grier and Dick Grant, college mates, are in love with young and pretty, Enid Monroe. When Dick is sent to Shanghai by the oil company for which both men work, Ned wins Enid by telling her that Dick is living with an Eurasian woman in Shanghai. Enid consents in wounded pride to marry Ned. Dick returns to America, expecting to propose to Enid. He learns she is to be married to Ned very soon and that he is expected to act as best man. He goes to New York and does the honors as best friend of both bride and groom. Returning to San Francisco, he buries himself in his work. On her honeymoon, Enid realizes she did not marry for love. The following Summer, en route to her brother's ranch, Enid and Ned stop off to see Dick. Dick's mother gives a dinner for them.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER XVIII.
DICK GRANT would have joyously given anything he possessed or hoped to possess to have stepped right on the train with them at that moment. But he gritted his teeth and hurried back to the office. That afternoon his job was drudgery.

Work, work! That would be his salvation. He'd work so hard that there wouldn't be time to think of Enid during the day, and then by night he'd be so tired that he'd go right to sleep and not think of her.

Every morning he was at the office before the first stenographer and went to work at top speed all day.

The men higher up were often heard to say, "Young Grant is a hustler," or "He's a promising youngster."

But often right in the midst of dictating a letter which required ingenuity, or perhaps at the most important point in a conference, Enid's face would flash into his mind. His heart would fairly leap. He'd clench his fists and his face would become suddenly stern—almost forbidding. Girls around the office would say at these times, "Grant's got a grouch on."

Some evenings after every one had left the office Dick would tilt his chair back, put his feet on his desk and just sit there, thinking of Enid. It was hard to go to sleep those nights.

But this afternoon after she left was one of gnawing misery for Dick.

He could settle at nothing. He started one thing, put it down and then commenced something else. He could not concentrate. His mind had no co-ordination.

Finally he called for a stenographer and resolved to get off some letters, no matter what happened. Having the girl there at his desk waiting for his dictation might drive him to it—even if the letters weren't up to his standard. He gave an address and started.

"Just then his telephone began to ring, and he told the stenographer, 'That will be all for the present. I'll ring when I want you again.'"

The chief wanted him. Of all the times in the world to talk over a problem this was the worst he could have chosen.

Dick walked with heavy tread into the chief's office.

He telephoned to Dave from Santa Barbara after he had finished his inspection of the prospects.

"Fine, Dick," Dave said with a ring in his voice. "We'll be glad to see you. I'll have the wagon at the foot of the grade at eleven in the morning."

Dick spent the night at the Mirasol Hotel in Santa Barbara. What a place for a stop on a honeymoon, he thought, with its dear little cottages looking into the tropical garden; the quiet Japanese boys in native costume bringing trays; the chintz bedroom.

He was up and away burning up the highway in the dawning early morning sun. Then a sharp turn into the crossroad and going into second most of the way up, up the steep mountain road.

There they were! There was the spring-wagon with the two horses. The grade up to the lake was too sharp for a motor-car.

Dave, Enid's brother, and his wife Pauline were in the front seat. Ned and Enid in the back of the wagon. How pretty Enid looked in her riding-habit and Western hat with the bright handkerchief around her neck like a cowboy's!

Dick climbed in the back seat. Enid sat between him and Ned. It didn't seem very different from the old days back at college—Ned and Enid and himself. It was so natural—old Ned cracking his jokes.

Now they were at the top of the grade. Serana. A lovely lake bordered with trees on the top of a mountain—with great, high brown mountains beyond. The peace of it. Wild. Beautiful.

"Take this cabin," said Pauline, leading Dick to the steps of a snug little house made of logs overlooking the lake.

"This is Ned's and Enid's house next to yours, and ours is beyond. Get out of your city clothes and come over to our house for a cocktail before lunch. I think you'll find everything you want. If you don't, just yell."

What a glorious week! Riding the first ranger's trails—off all day and broiling a steak for lunch. Riding slowly home in the late afternoon and dinner in the old ranch house. Sitting out on the porch of Pauline's and David's cabin. A deer crashing through the woods. Woodrats scurrying over the roof at night. The loons on the lake at daybreak. And Enid—sweet Enid with those deep-blue eyes and warm, red laughing mouth with little dimples all around it—stretched out on the ground after lunch, her hair caught in the leaves and the curve of her knee showing above her riding-boot.

It was during one of those times that Enid turned to Dick and said: "Isn't this perfect? Did you ever see such a place?"

"Wonderful!" murmured Dick. "There's only one thing lacking, Dick."

"What could be lacking?" asked Dick in surprise.

"A girl for you," laughed Enid. "We're really very selfish not to have thought of it. This is no place for a young man to be alone."

"To hear this last remark of Dick's. 'Then why don't you bring a nice girl down and start one, Dick?' she asked."

"I was just saying that this was no place for a young man to be alone," said Enid.

"No joking, Dick," insisted Pauline. "The next time you come bring a girl with you. How about your friend Genevieve Long? I think she's awfully attractive. If you say so I'll write and invite her to come down the next weekend you come to visit us."

"Think it would be fine," said Dick.

"I remember her at your mother's dance," said Enid. "Isn't she the tall, fair girl?"

"Yes."

Enid laughed teasingly. She seemed to want to embarrass Dick. "I understand that since your trip to the Orient, you seem to have lost your taste for American girls and that the only one you've paid any attention to is Genevieve Long. You have been rushing her, haven't you, Dick?"

"If you call being good friends rushing," said Dick. "Why—we grew up together as kids, went to dancing-school, and our families had houses at Pebble Beach in the Summer. I never even had a case on Gen. We were always good friends and are now. I see a lot of her in town. To be perfectly candid, Enid, I've never had a sentimental thought about Genevieve. I've never as much as held her hand. But I'd like to bring Genevieve down, and I'm sure she'd like to come. She's very keen on this sort of life."

"We'll arrange it," said Pauline and walked off.

"You know," said Enid, turning on her side and looking up into Dick's face, "you've never told us a thing about your life out in Shanghai."

"There's not much to tell, Enid. I didn't do much but work," he replied.

"Didn't you have any fun at all?" she asked. "I've always fancied Shanghai was the gayest place in the world. You know they call it the 'Paris of the East.'"

"They have offended Paris," Dick laughed.

"But, Dick," she was trying so hard to get him to talk. She was fascinated by this Chinese thing she had heard about him. Hurt. Wounded. Humiliated. If she could only hear from him the truth about it. There must be something he could explain. Couldn't she wheedle it out of him with her woman's cunning? "But, Dick, surely you got into some excitement."

Innocently Dick replied: "Enid, I led a very quiet life."

"Enid, I led a very quiet life," more than ever. He had lived a quiet life. Men always do that when they are having an affair with a woman.

Neither spoke for a moment. Enid turned on her back, reached for her hat and covered her face with it as if to shield her eyes from the sun.

Then Villa, the Spanish guide, started leading the horses out and cinching up the saddles, and Dick was on his feet, examining Enid's saddle to see that it was quite tight and looking at the bridle and helping her on her horse.

Dick rode at the end of the procession going home. He didn't want to talk to any one. He felt this unnatural attitude which Enid held for him keenly. At times it almost robbed him of his capacity for enjoying anything.

And all the while he loved her with an aching love.

"You'll be sure to come down soon again, won't you, Dick?" Pauline urged when he left. "I'll write to Genevieve Long and tell her that we shall be delighted to

Charge Army Employs Sex Appeal Methods

Representative Ross A. Collins (D.) of Mississippi, has charged the Army with using "sex appeal methods" to spread a militaristic spirit through the colleges and universities of the country. He plans to open a fight on the practice of naming girls honorary colonels of the reserve units at various colleges and the continued employment of hostesses in army camps.

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

"It's a Great Life," which opened at the Cliftona theatre last night, would be a very interesting story even if it were not enlivened by the antics of the inimitable stars the Duncan Sisters and nearly a dozen brand-new catchy songs.

The Duncan brand was directed by Sam Wood, who did such an excellent job with "College Life." It plants the Duncans as clerks in a department store who are fired because Rosetta "ad libs" on a rah rah type of "organization song" euphoniously named "Smile, Smile, with Mandelbaum and Weil." That makes the opportunity for the formation of a team, the Hogan Sisters, with James Dean at the piano. Dean's courtship of Vivian and Rosetta's resentment of his overflashing vanity, lead to a split. The story follows through to the final reuniting of the girls, with a side byplot concerning Rosetta and "Parker," played by Jed Prouty.

Numbers you'll remember are "Following You," "Sailing on a Sunbeam," "The Hoosier Hop," "It Must Be an Old Spanish Custom," "Won't You Be My Lady Love" and "The Sun of a May Morning." They were written by Ballard MacDonald and Dave Drever.

AT THE GRAND

Al Jolson, the world's greatest entertainer is at the Grand theatre in Warner Bros. latest all-talking, all-singing picture, "Say It With Songs."

"Say It With Songs" is a personality-plus picture and packing personality into pictures is Al Jolson's particular gift. Call it fervor, magnetism, luck, wit—what you will—this strange ability to electrify everybody everywhere belongs to just one person—Jolson!

There is probably more of Jolson in "Say It With Songs" than in either of his other talkies. In some inexplicable way he dominates every one he touches while a picture is in process of production and the talking-camera and the taking camera together catch all the brilliant high lights, and tender by-lights of his remarkable voice and presence.

While the early scenes of "Say It With Songs" were being recorded, the same difficulties that have beset the early scenes of "The Jazz Singer" and "The Singing Fool" appeared. The crew and cast became so enthralled during Jolson's first song that business practically stopped.

"It always takes a little time for us to get used to working while Al sings," Director Lloyd Bacon explained to a bystander.

"I'll never get used to it," a camera man remarked, "but I hope I will know enough, not altogether to forget what I am doing, when that same scene is shot again!"

Prolific Author

Alexander Dumas the elder, author of "The Count of Monte Cristo," is supposed to have been the most prolific writer who ever lived. He told Napoleon III that he had written some 1,200 volumes. One set of his works, which purports to be "complete," contains 277 volumes.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Dr. Copeland's Health Message Today

up so much trouble.

Teach your child to wash his hands frequently, to keep the face and the mouth clean. The inside of the nostrils should be gently washed out every morning and night, for the moist nostrils easily catch the germs from the air or soiled hands. Teach your child to keep his hands away from his mouth and nose.

Scarlet fever and diphtheria have been in the past the most dreaded of all the contagious diseases. Thanks to modern science there have been found preventives for these terrible ailments.

Modern science too, has given us methods of finding out the susceptibility of a child to these diseases. A test is made, and if the child is found to be likely to take the disease, then by an inoculation there is prospect of prevention. In this way, as well as by the intelligent teaching of the child in right habits of cleanliness and living, the dangers of these dread diseases are greatly reduced.

Only by the greatest precaution, and by intelligent education, can the public help in blotting out these diseases of infection and contagion. Protect your children and the children of your friends and neighbors so that they may have better health now and for the generation to come. Your doctor and science have put

If You Are Not Interested In Saving Money—

DON'T READ THIS --

We don't want any one to miss the important news of January Clearance Sale—so we are going to tell you about it in type large enough that the busy person can read it on the run. Outside of a very few items, all the bargains advertised last week will be offered tomorrow—and until the supply is exhausted. Then too, there are hundred and hundreds of big values that we have not mentioned.

Men's $1 work shirts at 69c is a bargain—and the mere announcement is enough—but when we tell you we have Men's suits at $16.85, we can't convey the fact that it's just as sensational as the shirt item. You have to see the garments to realize that they are worth $25 to $30. And when we tell you we are offering Children's 50c Allen A Stockings for only 29c you know it's a bargain—but Men's $20 and $25 Overcoats at $13.85 are equally as outstanding values! Men's dress hats that were formerly $4 to $6 for $1.85—Men's $1.50 ribbed Unionsuits for $1.19—Men's $10 all wool shaker knit sweater coats at $5.45—Men's sheeplined coats that were formerly priced up to $15 for $4.85—are all splendid values that should not be overlooked.

And just as likely as not we've skipped the very best offerings in telling you about this store-wide event. That's why you must come and see the bargains to realize what it's all about. It's hard to pedal down to ordinary statements. We're right in the middle of things—and when it comes to trying to tell you the story we don't know where to begin or where to end.

Zane's Trace, which goes through Pickaway-co at Tarlton, and then through Kingston into Ross-co and to the Ohio river, may be improved following a meeting of a number of citizens interested in its improvement at a conference held in the offices of the Ohio Good Roads Federation, Hartman Building, Columbus, Friday.

A permanent committee was formed at the meeting consisting of D. W. Armstrong, Zanesville, chairman; Brice Browning, Zanesville, secretary; and the following vice-chairman, W. O. Little, Zanesville; Dr. S. E. Spangler, Somerset; J. C. Elder, Rushville and F. M. Paul, Lancaster. Additional vice-chairman will be named representing other communities interested.

The route extends from Zanesville southwesterly through Perry, Fairfield, Pickaway, Ross, Pike, Highland, Adams and Brown counties, terminating at Aberdeen, across the Ohio river from Maysville, Ky. The lower section of 11 miles extending from Bentonville, Adams-co, to Aberdeen, Brown-co, was recently added to the state highway system.

The physical condition of the road will be studied by the committee with the idea of adopting a program looking to the improvement of the road throughout during the next several years. This road, when completed, will afford to the traveling public not only a route of much scenic and historic interest, but will provide the north and east extension of one of Kentucky's most important state routes, to be connected with a new Ohio river bridge at Marysville, soon to be erected by the state of Kentucky.

If You Are Not Interested In Saving Money—

DON'T READ THIS --

We don't want any one to miss the important news of January Clearance Sale—so we are going to tell you about it in type large enough that the busy person can read it on the run. Outside of a very few items, all the bargains advertised last week will be offered tomorrow—and until the supply is exhausted. Then too, there are hundred and hundreds of big values that we have not mentioned.

Men's $1 work shirts at 69c is a bargain—and the mere announcement is enough—but when we tell you we have Men's suits at $16.85, we can't convey the fact that it's just as sensational as the shirt item. You have to see the garments to realize that they are worth $25 to $30. And when we tell you we are offering Children's 50c Allen A Stockings for only 29c you know it's a bargain—but Men's $20 and $25 Overcoats at $13.85 are equally as outstanding values! Men's dress hats that were formerly $4 to $6 for $1.85—Men's $1.50 ribbed Unionsuits for $1.19—Men's $10 all wool shaker knit sweater coats at $5.45—Men's sheeplined coats that were formerly priced up to $15 for $4.85—are all splendid values that should not be overlooked.

And just as likely as not we've skipped the very best offerings in telling you about this store-wide event. That's why you must come and see the bargains to realize what it's all about. It's hard to pedal down to ordinary statements. We're right in the middle of things—and when it comes to trying to tell you the story we don't know where to begin or where to end. Sale Ends Sat. Jan. 18
